

Detailed Engineering

We take a construction-led approach to design; this means we design with ease of construction in mind, reducing problems and costs down the line. And the construction management guidelines that govern our construction and commissioning activities to ensure that our engineering output is robust and conforms to our high standards.

We offer a balance of resources to support everything from small, modular and fast-track projects through to major developments requiring hundreds of engineers, large supply chains and integrated construction services.